Segment touted as road to growth

Governor, others cut ribbon for first stretch of Alton Bypass

Gov. Jim Edgar

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Illinois Gov. Jim Edgar told about 200 people that the newest segment of Interstate 255, stretching from I-270 to Illinois 143, is a "vital part" of the Metro East's transportation network. Edgar — along with other dignitaries — participated in a ribbon-cutting ceremony for the first stretch of the Alton Bypass late Tuesday morning. "The highway is an important addition to the transportation infrastructure of the Metro East area," Edgar said. "It will provide a valuable corridor of economic growth between Alton and Interstate 270 and is a vital link to the interstate system around the greater St. Louis area. James Pennkamp, executive director of the Leadership Council of Southwestern Illinois, said the new highway was "wonderful."

"It's going to help a lot of people," he said. "We have 3,600 acres surrounding this highway under development (in several business parks)." He said the opening of I-255 has driven much of the region's economic growth in the last 10 years and more is expected. "I predict we're going to see steady growth along this corridor for years to come," he said. "Illinois has been discovered; we're getting a lot of attention both locally and nationally." In addition, Edgar noted that the highway would help ease traffic congestion. At present, about 8,000 vehicles per day are expected on the new highway, but within 10 years, that number is expected to increase to more than 28,000.

"That is important from an economic point of view because you can get more products to and from market," Edgar said. "Also, it will encourage economic development along this corridor, as well as the (See ROAD, Page 4A)

Woman suing district for her demotion

Suit accuses superintendent of several misdeeds

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

The former principal of Venice-Lincoln Technical Center is suing the Venice School District and Superintendent James J. Doughty over her demotion.

Citing a violation of due process in her demotion, Khadijah Joharifard is seeking reinstatement as principal of the technical center, preliminary and permanent injunctions against the district and more than $100,000 from both the district and Doughty.

The seven-count suit, filed Oct. 8 at the Madison County Courthouse in Edwardsville, also accuses Doughty of telling her to "take actions with District or Venice-Lincoln Technical Center property or funds which are contrary to law" and then retaliating when she refused.

The suit says that on Sept. 2, Doughty removed Joharifard as principal and had a security guard escort her off technical center property. She was transferred to a position as a Diana Wyffel always loved autumn until she moved to Troy last year. Now the season inspires dread rather than joy.

Smoke from burning leaves often triggers breathing problems for her, the result of chemicals used to treat ovarian cancer that weakened her lungs. Wyffel never knew the severity of the damage until she moved to Troy from Minnetonka, Minn., where a leaf-burning ban has been in place for more than 30 years.

"I liken it to being buried alive," Wyffel said of her attacks, fighting back tears. "I used to look forward to fall. Now it's just been a nightmare for me."

Board: Plan won't make grade with all parents

'Social' passing nixed

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

Granite City School Board members Tuesday approved a grade-promotion policy they predict will prove unpopular with parents.

The policy eliminates "social" promotions — moving a student to the next grade because his or her peers have moved on even though the student may be failing academically. The board must follow state rules, said Granite City School Superintendent Steve Balen.

"It's an area (in which) we've received numerous complaints from parents," he said.

"Parents want (failing students) passed on to the next level," Balen said, "but the state emphatically says 'no.'"

Students are promoted to the next grade or retained based on classroom performance, testing and attendance. The board is seeking to preserve the students' self-image, initiative and desire to continue learning.

He said the district would know by spring just how popular is the state policy.

"It's a good policy. I'm glad to see the state enacting it," Balen said.

In other business, Balen reported that the district's number of substitute teachers is down from previous years. This has caused the board to approve new individuals to the permanent substitute teacher list at almost every board meeting so far this year.

Negative spin works in politics

Nobody ever wants to admit it, but negative campaigns work.

Politics is a very pragmatic science. If something succeeds, candidates will use it. And negative attacks work so well that all candidates in hotly contested races use them in one way or another.

Congressman Jerry Weller (R-11) is no stranger to negativity. Weller is a conservative Republican who represents a marginally Democratic district and manages to keep his job with exceptional cunning and street smarts. He seems like a nice enough sort when you meet him, but he'll tear your political throat out if you run against him.

Two years ago, he portrayed his opponent, Clem Balanoff, as a California hippie. Weller sent out direct mail that featured peace symbols and pictures of long-haired, stoned-looking people with bell bottoms. He called his opponent "California Clem" and he beat Balanoff, who worked as a political consultant in California for a few years, by 7,500 votes.

Weller also told voters Balanoff had voted to raise the temporary surcharge to the state income tax permanent when Balanoff had actually voted against that bill and Weller voted for it.

Not long ago, Weller's spokesperson criticized his current opponent for supporting President Clinton, who he referred to as a "sex addict." That sort of campaign language almost opens the door for the other side.

It was only a couple of weeks before the other shoe dropped. Weller's opponent, Gary Mueller, challenged him the other day to sign an "affidavit of integrity." By signing the affidavit, Weller would be swearing he had never cheated on, nor abused, his ex-wife, never engaged in a homosexual act, never taken drugs and had never been convicted of a felony.

Weller, of course, refused to sign, rightly claiming this was the act of a desperate man. Indeed, Mueller is desperate. He has run an otherwise pathetic campaign so far and hasn't been able to raise more than a few bucks on his own.

But Mueller wouldn't have considered using such a tactic against a guy who had always taken the high road. Sometimes what goes around comes around—twice as hard.

And that's why things are going to get mighty bloody in the 11th state of Illinois in southern Illinois. A couple of weeks ago, state Rep. Dan Reitz's opponent, Bruce Brown (R-Chester), accused him of supporting a very controversial landfill Brown's radio ads and direct mailers even refer to Reitz as "Danfill."

Rich Miller

Reitz (D-Steleville) denies ever supporting the project and has shot back with a commercial defending himself.

For good measure, Reitz also began airing another ad accusing Brown of being the sole contributor to a local sheriff candidate who ended up in jail for arson. The sheriff candidate's two top advisors were also convicted of arson.

Both sides assure me they're prepared to escalate this negativity as far as it takes. It's expected to be the nastiest state legislative race this year.

The U.S. Senate race will also be one of the bloodiest ever.

One of Sen. Carol Moseley-Braun's top advisors told me the other day that he planned to "rip Peter Fitzgerald's face off"—presumably the warm and fuzzy, soccer mom-friendly face that the conservative Republican Fitzgerald uses in his campaign ads...when he's not airing his own attack ads against Moseley-Braun.

One of Moseley-Braun's latest TV ads accuses Fitzgerald of wanting to abolish the U.S. Department of Education. Fitzgerald has cried foul, however, saying he is on record supporting a scaled-back department.

Of course, Fitzgerald is also on record as saying that since the U.S. Constitution fails to mention the word "education," he doesn't believe the federal government should be involved in education at all. That's called having your cake and eating it, too.

I'll leave you with this: Polling shows older women are the strongest opponents of negative campaigns, but research has proven they respond to negative attacks more than any other demographic.

We are stuck with it.

Rich Miller also publishes Capitol Fax, a statewide political newsletter. The preceding column, provided by the Illinois Press Association, does not necessarily reflect the opinions of the association or this newspaper.

Do you think the Clinton scandal will affect how Democratic voters will vote in the elections?

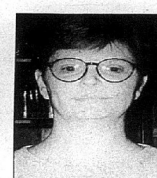

Dan Partney, 25

"No, Democrats vote for Democrats. Republicans vote for Republicans."

Rob Saggie, 26

"No, because if the Democrats were doing their jobs right, they would not be worrying about the president's personal life. He has done a lot for us, more than what any other president has done in a long time. They should just leave him alone."

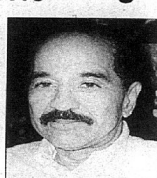

Phyllis Ybarra, 40

"Yes, I think the voters will vote for the person and not the party. I would hope voters take a look at the candidates themselves and not the party."

Luis Ybarra, 41

"Definitely. No matter who is in the White House, Democrat or Republican, that person needs to respect the office of the president. Bill Clinton has not respected his oath. The elections will prove the American people disapprove of his behavior."

David Hodges, 55

"I don't think it will affect any hard-core Democrats. I also think we will be surprised this election because the Republicans have made a lot of money during his administration. I think this will be one of the more 'interesting' elections. We have never seen a situation like this before."

Here's a tribute to the life of the farmer

Harvest is here, and I thought it would be appropriate to include a little poem dedicated to those who feed our country.

It is called "Farming: A Way of Life."

The snow has melted
And the skies are clear.
It's time to get out
That good old John Deere.
They work the ground
Until late at night.
They stay with it
Until they do it right.
The seeds are planted
In long narrow rows.

David Schumacher

Now it's up to God
To make them grow.
The rain will come
And the sun will shine.
It better warm up;

We are already behind.
The corn is growing.
Oh, so tall
The beans are late
And a little small.
Time flies by
And the harvest is here!
Once again, we crank up
The old John Deere.
The farmers head down the road

And into the field.
They can't hardly wait
To check the yield.
The crops are hauled to the scale
To be weighed.
That's where the farmer

Hopes to get paid.
Harvest is over
And time to rest.
Knowing down deep
That you did your best.
From those of us
Who eat what you grow.
There is just one thing
We want you to know.
For all those hours
You work long and late.

I am sure when the time comes
God will meet you at the gate.
Who knows, you might get in
On a discounted rate.

Scandal proves there's no place like home

Back in the saddle again and over a brief jet lag. Had a great time but more about that at a later date. Today, a quick commentary on international news coverage and how it differs from our own, and a "small world" item.

During nearly three weeks in France, most of my news reading was from the International Herald-Tribune (a joint publication of The New York Times and The Washington Post), since, while my reading abilities of French are somewhat better than my speech, "Le Figaro" is a challenge.

And the good news is that Clinton's ordeals not only don't take precedence over important events in the foreign press, the attitudes of those who write letters to the editor differ vastly from our own. Clinton, Monica, impeachment, you name it, seemed to take a back seat to the German election in which Gerhard Schröder dethroned longtime Chancellor Helmut Kohl, the Yugoslavian attacks on Kosovo, even the untimely death of Flo-Jo and the feats of Big Mac, who, unlike Casey, didn't strike out.

In dozens of letters to the editor, from Berlin, London, Athens, Florence, Singapore, elections. Voters may have thought their choices were limited, but just wait until 2000.

The sanity of any man or woman seeking the presidency will be brought into serious question."

My personal favorite, a lady from Pontevoy: "Lawmakers should take a deep breath while reading the Starr Report, keeping in mind that Mr. Starr is likely to be remembered as the McCarthy of the '90s."

The most surprising was a comment from Christopher Patten, the last British governor of Hong Kong and a top-level of the Union Jack in Hong Kong, Patten and his entourage (two beautiful daughters and dogs "Whiskey" and "Soda") repaired to a farm house of his hosts, the Dorras, and we drove over one day to get a glimpse of the place, anticipating a chateau and finding a typical stone farm home of the farm region. Patten wasn't home, and it turned out, was here in the States, promoting a book just published, "East and West."

A week later, he was quoted as having told American reporters: "The world requires an end to this mawkish nonsense. Most of the time, Europeans like to poke sticks through the bars at the U.S. It makes us feel important. We only realize how much we need you when things go wrong, like now." This from Mr. Super-Conservative!

Then, too, at breakfast one morning my friend Liz informed me that during the night, she had been inspired to parody "Twinkle, Twinkle," parody "Billy Clinton, Kenny Starr, now we know just what you are: Kenny's questions, Billy's lies, it could almost make you cry. Billy Clinton, Kenny Starr, you have both gone much too far."

A couple of days after our return to Paris from the southwest, I turned to the editorial page of the Herald-Tribune and there, in the "Letters" section a familiar name caught my eye: "Glen Carbon." You could have knocked me over with the proverbial feather until I saw the name of the writer, a man I've known a number of years, Lee Presser. Hey, Lee, you've made the big time!

Group claws for credibility after sighting cougar here

Police find no trace of animal, doubt testimony

By Steve Whitworth
Staff writer

The latest in a series of reported cougar sightings occurred last week near the playground of LeClaire School in Edwardsville. Police found no trace of the animal, but Director of Police Bennett Dickmann said he would ask state wildlife officials to investigate the incident, the third reported in the Edwardsville area this year.

Customers and employees of the New You Salon, 622 Franklin Ave., said they saw the big cat about 9:15 a.m. Oct. 5 and watched it for several minutes.

"The police didn't believe it," said salon owner Brenda Edgeworth, who was one of the witnesses. "But we did see it. It was there."

A total of five people, including Edgeworth, an employee and three customers, told police they saw the animal inside the fence around the Illinois Power natural gas monitoring station, just northeast of the intersection of Franklin and Madison avenues.

"I think it was a young cougar," said Wayne Ayers, 39, of Pontoon Beach, a hair stylist at the salon who said he has seen cougars in the wild in Wisconsin. "It sure wasn't a house cat."

Ayers said he was cutting the hair of a customer, a firefighter with the Edwardsville Fire Department, who was the first to spot the animal near the large tower that carries power lines adjacent to the IP facility.

"He noticed it out the window across the lot," Ayers said. "It started walking toward the Illinois Power thing and behind the shed."

The firefighter, who declined to comment about the incident, called police to report the sighting. Meanwhile, Ayers walked outside to get a closer look.

"I saw it walk into the corner of the fenced area," he said, estimating he approached to within 40 yards of the animal.

"It had an extremely long and thick tail, and it was reddish brown," Ayers said. "It was a magnificent-looking animal."

Ayers said he lost sight of the animal after it entered the corner of the fenced area. Dickmann said officers who responded to the call found no trace of a cougar. He said a resident owns a large tomcat, and officers believed it was the animal that was seen.

Nevertheless, the police chief said he would take the report seriously. "I certainly respect the report of the citizens," Dickmann said.

"He said police would contact officials with the Illinois Department of Natural Resources and ask them to interview the witnesses to try to determine whether the animal was a cougar."

Dickmann said he doubted the animal would pose any danger to children at the school. "A cougar or most any wild animal is not interested in a confrontation with a human being," he said, noting the exception might be a cornered animal or one with young offspring nearby.

Edgeworth said police had been skeptical about the report. "They told one of the guys that we saw the neighborhood cat," she said. "But there's no way. That was not a cat. And I've seen some large house cats before. It was larger than that."

Edgeworth said the animal fled toward a nearby wooded area. "I saw it walk into the corner of the fenced area," she said, estimating he approached to within 40 yards of the animal.

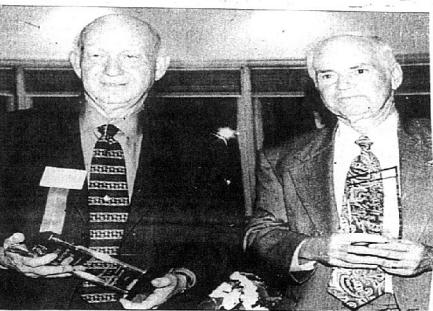

"It had an extremely long and thick tail, and it was reddish brown," Ayers said. "It was a magnificent-looking animal."

Inmate awaiting trial gets in scuffle

By Dennis Grubhugh
Staff writer

An Alton man who chose to stay in jail while he waits to be retried in a 1978 rape case was charged Tuesday with aggravated battery for allegedly beating a fellow inmate in Edwardsville.

David A. Gray, 46, was ordered held on $50,000 bond after a fight with fellow Madison County Jail prisoner Cory J. Andrews. The instigator of the fight is being debated. Authorities said Gray was responsible. Gray, through a friend, says he was only defending himself.

Gray raised eyebrows 12 days ago when he told a judge that he preferred to stay in jail rather than be confined to his home on electronic monitoring. Gray was brought to the jail a few weeks ago after spending the last 20 years in prison for the rape, attempted murder and robbery of an Alton woman.

After recent DNA tests cast doubt on Gray's involvement in the 1978 attack, Associate Judge Judge Ann Callis ordered a new trial and reduced Gray's bond to his own recognizance, which would have allowed him to walk out of jail without paying a cent while awaiting retrial.

Now, he must at least raise bail of $5,000. Gray objected to being placed on an electronic monitoring bracelet, saying that he thought authorities may attempt to set him up while he awaits trial.

The fight between Gray and Andrews broke out around 1:30 p.m. Thursday, said Madison County Sheriff's Department Lt. Joe Gulash.

"They were in the day room and they'd been arguing all day," Gulash said. "Words were exchanged and there was some name-calling — silly stuff really."

Gray allegedly called Andrews a name, which prompted a scuffle and blows to be exchanged, Gulash said. Two jail officers ordered the men to stop and they did not respond. The officers then broke up the melee.

Other inmates and the officers both said Gray was responsible for the trouble, Gulash said.

However, a friend of Gray's, Lee Otis Griffin of Belleville, gave a different account. Griffin said Gray called him to tell him that Andrews had called him a "f---in' nigger" and goaded him into a fight.

Andrews, 25, of Granite City, is in jail on a theft charge. Griffin also said the officers used mace to subdue Gray, although no one at the jail would confirm that.

"Because of his high visibility, people are going to try to attack him because of the progress he's making in the judicial system," Griffin said.

Griffin founded the Freedom and Justice Committee in support of unjustly accused prisoners after spending 16 years in prison for a triple murder that he says he did not commit. He has been planning to stage a rally in support of Gray at the courthouse.

Alton police have reopened the 1978 case in an attempt to find new evidence against Gray. State's Attorney Bill Haine has said he will review their findings to determine whether to retry the case.

Business owner steamed over city's lack of support

IP decision forces repair company's move to Madison

By Steve Whitworth
Staff writer

Moving day at Les Kasten's business in Edwardsville required a train Tuesday.

Kasten is the owner of Illinois Transit Assembly Corp., 214 S. Brown Ave. The business restores old passenger railroad cars and brings them up to Amtrak standards.

On Tuesday, he had to move his business — including 15 cars and a locomotive — to Madison. Illinois Transit employs 18 people.

Kasten was forced to move because of a decision by Union Pacific Railroad Co., which owns the tracks that run through his business and across Illinois Route 159 near the LeClaire water tower.

Union Pacific plans to remove the tracks from a point a few miles north of Madison to De Kamp, including the stretch through Edwardsville, said Raymond Allamong, manager of rail line planning for Union Pacific in Omaha, Neb.

Allamong said Union Pacific's rail service through Edwardsville will end soon, but no date has been determined.

In order to move, Illinois Transit's employees had to put the old rail cars and the locomotive in shape to roll down the rails Tuesday. The process made up a "hospital train," which had to move slowly because of the poor condition of the cars being pushed.

"It will take six moves in and out to get everybody out," said Kasten, who noted the work probably would block traffic periodically on Illinois Route 148.

"We hope to make it as painless as possible," Kasten said.

The Illinois Transit facility originally was built in 1953 as a steam locomotive shop for the Litchfield-Madison Railroad. It later was bought by the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad. Kasten bought the property from that railroad in 1986.

Kasten started his business in Las Vegas 13 years ago, then moved it to Minnesota for a year before opening in Edwardsville 12 years ago.

Two years ago, Union Pacific swallowed up the Chicago and Northwestern, and soon after, Union Pacific received permission from the Interstate Commerce Commission to abandon its tracks in Edwardsville.

Kasten said the move comes at an inconvenient time because he doesn't yet have a shop on the 15 acres he has bought from Union Pacific at its facilities in Madison. That means the company's work will have to be done outside during the winter months until its shop can be built.

In the meantime, the Brown Street property will be kept open as a coupler and truck repair facility, where small piece work will be done by three or four employees.

All of the rails at the Edwardsville facility will be removed and taken to Madison within the next two weeks, Kasten said.

Kasten also said he had received little support from the city in his bid to forestall the move.

"I feel like Edwardsville wants to be a bedroom community," he said. "The city wants the trains out of here."

Edwardsville Mayor Gary Niebur said the city saw the writing on the wall when the ICC gave Union Pacific the right to abandon the tracks. He called the effect of that decision on Kasten's business "unfortunate."

"On the flip side, my guess would be that the majority of the residents will be grateful that there are no train crossings in the center of the community, which frankly have been detrimental to the traffic situation," the mayor said.

representative for the Belleville-based Local 50, said racetrack management hired back the six laid-off workers and gave them back pay.

Management also offered raises for the striking workers, he said.

"It's good news for the guys (who were) out there, especially the ones laid off," Green said.

In July, maintenance workers and groundskeepers at the track had asked Local 50 to help formally organize a union. When workers voted to organize, Gateway management challenged the results with the National Labor Relations Board.

Teamsters struck on Oct. 1, seeking higher pay and reinstatement of the laid-off workers. Teamsters had threatened to convince fans and union supporters to turn away from the NASCAR Busch Series and the Shop 'N' Save 100 USAC Silver Crown Championship races this weekend in hopes that labor support would outweigh race mania. However, Green said the Teamsters would now "certainly" support the race.

Gateway officials expect a crowd similar in size to last year's event, which drew 52,000 fans to the track. Several thousand of the additional 10,000 seats added for this season remain on sale. Tickets are available through area MetroTix outlets toll-free at (800) 293-5949 or at the Gateway office, 482-2400.

Events begin at 2 p.m. Thursday when track gates open. NASCAR Busch Series practice will be held from 3:30 to 5 p.m., with garages closing a half-hour later.

Gates open at 8 a.m. Friday, with Busch Series practices scheduled for 9 to 10 a.m., 11 a.m. to noon and 3 to 4 p.m. NASCAR Bud Pole qualifying (two laps) starts at 1 p.m.

USAC Silver Crown Practices are set for 10 to 11 a.m. and 12:30 to 1 p.m., with an additional practice at 9 to 9:30 a.m. Saturday. Qualifying begins at 2:15 p.m., with the Silver Crown Last Chance Race at 4 p.m. Garages close at 5 p.m. Friday.

On Saturday, race day, gates open at 7 a.m. with driver introductions and opening ceremonies set for 11 a.m. The CARQUEST Auto Parts 250 begins at 11:30 and runs for 200 laps on the 1.25-mile track. The Shop 'N' Save 100 begins 30 minutes after the NASCAR race and runs for 80 laps.

Lung Association of Southwestern Illinois, Director Karen Lanter, a Collinsville resident, told the media that too many communities still allow leaf-burning and that restrictions are ineffective.

"When burning is allowed, people will burn... and they will create unhealthy situations for their neighbors," Lanter said.

Laura Black said that certainly is the case in her Granite City neighborhood where she desperately tries to shield her 6-year-old daughter, Mikaela, from smoke. Mikaela has had respiratory problems since she was 6 months old. She was diagnosed with asthma a year later.

Some of the problems that trigger Mikaela's more violent attacks, like viral infections, are things the child can outgrow. "But she can never outgrow or become immune to the effects of leaf-burning," Black said. "Attacks caused by smoke are always more intense."

Dr. V. Mohan, a Belleville pulmonary specialist, said he has seen a steady increase in visits to the emergency room by asthma sufferers during his 16 years of practice. This is particularly true in the fall, he said.

One reason that smoke from burning leaves is such a hazard is that, unlike other pollutants, it is generated at ground level.

"The pollution hangs around lower and longer," Mohan said.

George Bridgewater of Highland, a Master Gardener with the University of Illinois Extension Service, said that while leaves do need to be picked up, they don't need to be burned.

Instead, he suggested creating a compost pile. Leaves can be gathered in a pile with other yard debris, such as grass clippings, preferably in a shady place. In fact, grass will help the pile break down faster, he said.

"Let nature take over and do its thing," Bridgewater said. "Over a period of time, nature will decompose this pile you've collected."

The result of the decomposing pile is a natural fertilizer rich in nutrients. It's an ideal product for vegetable plants, Bridgewater said. Several communities, including Collinsville, Granite City, Edwardsville, Madison, Scott Air Force Base and Valmeyer, have banned leaf burning. In most of those communities, yard waste pick-up is available from waste haulers for an additional fee. Granite City even has a drop-off site.

traffic safety factor."

Construction for the first segment began in June 1993. The project required 3.3 million cubic yards of earth to be moved, 24 bridges to be constructed and 300 tons of asphalt to be placed for the four-lane highway.

The section of the Alton Bypass opened Tuesday is about one-third of the total highway extension. Eventually, it will connect I-255 to an improved U.S. 67 in Godfrey north to west-central Illinois.

Engineering and land acquisition is under way for the second section, while the third section is in the planning stages. The total cost for the highway project is expected to be about $200 million.

Edgar also said that for the rest of the project to be completed quickly, more funding — perhaps in the form of increased gasoline taxes — would be required.

"I think what it hinges on is getting additional revenue sources for highway funds," Edgar said. "It's going to take additional revenues above what come in currently to be able to complete this project and many other projects throughout the state."

Edgar said he would support a gas tax increase, but said it isn't likely to be considered in the near future because of upcoming elections.

"I think it's possible, but you're not going to hear many legislators say they are in favor of that in the next three weeks," he said.

er false statements to school board members and others about her.

According to a copy of the memo, Doughty cited her "unprofessional behavior" as the reason for the action, saying "Your continued insubordinate, confrontational and defiant behavior is not in the district's best interest."

In the suit, Joharfarid also alleged Doughty's act of directing her to perform duties outside the scope of her employment and then retaliating against her, doctoring her personnel file, distributing false documents to others within the school district and making other er false statements to school board members and others about her.

According to the suit, Doughty has "intentionally utilized his position of authority so as to act in a mentally abusive fashion... creating a work environment which is both intolerable and inappropriate."

No hearing dates have been set in the case.

Hilda Corrado honored at family reunion, barbecue

Michael and Diana Corrado of Granite City hosted a family reunion and barbecue at their home on Saturday.

Those attending were Lindy and Hilda Mae Burris and their son, Eric of Burton; Joe and Mary Corrado and their children, Alicia, Angela, Joey Jr. and Amanda, of Edwardsville; Dean and Judy Odle and their children, Christopher, Kimberly and Chase, all of Highland; Bob Corrado and his daughter, Tara, of Litchfield; Mike Corrado Jr. of Pontoon Beach; and the honored guest, Hilda Corrado.

Charlie and Kathy Williams have announced the arrival of a baby boy, Mitchell Logan, at Boone Hospital in Columbia, Mo. He weighed in at 8 pounds, 9 ounces. The maternal grandparents are Howard and Chris Lathrop of Granite City. The paternal grandparents are Don and Linda Williams of Cahokia.

The Saturn Car Club, formed in 1994, has a goal to help the less fortunate and to have fun along the way.

The club meets at 7 p.m. the third Thursday of each month at Saturn of North County, located at 3062 Pershall Road.

Guests are always welcome. You don't have to own a Saturn to attend or join.

Some of the activities include the Greater St. Louis Auto Show; build-a-basket, where Easter baskets for abused children are made; a charity bike ride; a spring car

The youth at Pontoon Baptist Church held a special Youth Sunday on Oct. 4. They took charge of the 10:45 a.m. service and did an excellent job.

The emcees for the service were Robert Shipley and Robert Clyburn. Other special events included a special youth choir; the Pontoon Baptist Youth Singers, who sang "Lean On Me"; a special flute and clarinet duet performed by Laura and Andrea Craig; and a devotional reading given by Emily Falter.

Shelly Keller wrote and read a poem especially for this service. Ashlee Schenke sang a special rendition of "Jesus Loves Me" with the young children of the choir. She also gave a beautiful, moving testimony about her relationship with the Lord and about those people who had touched her life.

She mentioned her previous Sunday school teachers Shirley White, Barb Chaney and Delby and Paul Staydubhar and her mother, Tammy Schenke.

Shawn Newman gave the responsive reading. Special celebrity guest was gospel singer Mary Schwartz.

Teacher and Youth Director Toni Bickel led the event.

They ended the program with a special thank you to family, friends and the Rev. Alan Redfern, pastor of the church.

Those participating in the program were Andrea and Laura Craig, Robert Clyburn, Robert Shipley, Emily Falter, Shelly Keller, Joe Hayden, Shawn Newman, Melissa Owens and Ashlee Schenke.

The Madison County Baptist Association senior adult group Saints Alive met Oct. 5 at First Baptist Church in Granite City. President Bob Lewis welcomed the group and thanked the church for hosting the group. He also thanked Myrtle Howell, Ellen Douglas and Elinor Stagner for preparing and decorating the room with Halloween themes and serving the potluck at noon.

Happy birthdays and anniversaries were sung to those celebrating since the last meeting. Eva Barrow led the music, accompanied by Louise Acocks at the piano. Songs sung were "The Way of the Cross Leads Home" and "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross." Prayer requests were spoken for friends and relatives in the hospital.

Acocks gave the prayer. Lewis read some senior citizen jokes and asked some trivia questions. Jean Cosine, Acocks and Barrow were elected for the Nominating Committee.

A trip to Pere Marquette State Park in Grafton is planned for Oct. 22, and a trip to the St. Louis Science Center is planned for Nov. 10. A shopping trip is planned as well. All senior citizens may attend ed these trips. Call 631-6222 for more information.

Barrow sang "Where We Will Never Grow Old," and Rev. Brian Smith spoke on the topic "Be Thankful to God for His Mercy in Preparing Salvation."

Others attending the meeting were Virginia Head, Pauline Demery, Erby and Mildred Wood, Ruth Dagon, Bryce and Norma Jolly, Gertrude Sullivan, Elwyn Wilkinson, Vera Kirkpatrick, Freda Jordan, Hassie Jones, Lorene Odom, Rev. Bob Carer and Ed and Alice Shafer.

Pauline Demery and Millie Wood won the prizes.

The next meeting will be Jan. 4 at Calvary Baptist Church in Granite City.

Many substitutes are being hired for full-time positions elsewhere, helping to create the smaller substitute pool.

Finally, the School Board adopted a resolution for a $2.9 million fund transfer for construction and maintenance of school buildings. Balen praised board members for their foresight in setting aside the money.

Six years ago, when the state made available millions in capital improvement funds, the district promised and voters approved a bond issue for renovating Granite City High School. The bonds are being repaid over a 20-year period, but other projects cannot wait that long for the district to have construction money available again.

"The board very wisely saved the money for construction

Soccer teams get graded in seed meetings

It's report card time for the Metro East high school boys soccer teams. Instead of handing out A's, B's and C's, though, the coaches will be studying W's, L's and T's to determine the strengths of the various teams.

During this week, Metro East coaches will meet at the schools hosting sectionals to rate the teams. It can sometimes be a clear-cut decision. Other times, there is a lot of politicking going on, as the coaches try to get the best seeds for their teams.

Getting a good seed is important. It can often mean a tougher schedule in sectional play if your team loses even one place in the seeding meeting. For instance, a team rated fourth undoubtedly will have a tougher schedule than a team seeded third. It often means playing the No. 1 seed in the semifinals rather than the No. 2 seed.

I'm sure there was much debate in trying to figure which team should get the top seed in the Granite City Class AA Sectional. Host Granite City, Edwardsville, Belleville East and O'Fallon all could make a case for their right to be No. 1.

Granite City probably got the nod, though, as the Warriors' always-tough schedule produced some good wins. Ten-time state champions, the Warriors were tied by Edwardsville and O'Fallon, but lost to none of the teams in their sectional. They also had wins against Belleville East and Collinsville.

Edwardsville, also playing a tough schedule, beat Collinsville and tied both Belleville East and Granite City, but the Tigers were around the .500 mark as the seeding meeting was being held.

O'Fallon almost beat Granite City, settling for a 2-2 tie, but the Panthers' schedule was again suspect. They lost to Carbondale and Missouri power DeSmet and also was tied by Carbondale.

Belleville East came out of the gate strong, but has struggled lately. The Lancers have lost to both Collinsville and Granite City.

My seeding would be Granite City, Belleville East, Edwardsville and O'Fallon.

Triad and Carbondale should have battled for the top seed in the Triad Class A Sectional. Triad was seeded No. 1 last year, but was upset by Carbondale in the final game. The Warriors went on to beat Waterloo in the Columbia Supersectional to advance to the first Class A state tournament finals at Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville.

Triad stumbled early in the season, losing three games to a tournament at Quincy, but has lost only once since — to Collinsville. The Knights have beaten Mississippi Valley Conference rival Highland twice, posted a 3-0 victory against Belleville West and also had a quality 1-1 tie against St. Louis Aquinas-Mercy, a team which beat Granite City.

Carbondale has yet to lose, being tied only by O'Fallon and Cape Girardeau (Mo.) Notre Dame.

But the vote for the top seed goes to Triad, followed by Carbondale. Highland should have pulled off the No. 3 seed, with the likes of Centralia and Lebanon battling it out for the No. 4 seed.

Althoff should have gained the top seed in the Columbia Class A Sectional. The Crusaders were seeded No. 1 last year. Althoff was tied by Waterloo early in the season, but later pounded Gibault, a team which shut out Waterloo. The No. 2 seed could have gone to host Columbia, which beat Gibault in overtime.

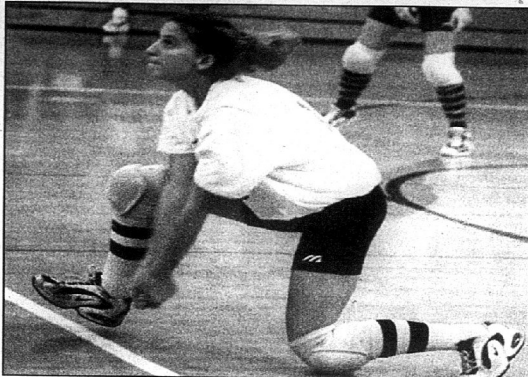

My seeds in order would be Althoff, Columbia, Gibault and Waterloo. Regardless of the seedings, the teams still have to perform on the field. In fact, none of the top seeds in the three area sectionals wound up as the champion last year. Belleville East, Triad and Waterloo all were beaten along the way.

It was a homecoming of a different sort for first-year Alton Marquette coaches Mick Brown and Pete Hayes when the Explorers took on Collinsville on Oct. 7 in a game that ended 0-0.

Brown and Hayes coached many of the players who were the nucleus of their State Cup championship under-11 team in 1993. On that Collinsville United Celtic team were seven players presently playing for Collinsville High School: Jeremy Coppotelli, Kyle Kerkmeyer, Kris Hall, Joe McClary, Mark McClary, Kevin Ralston and Adam Thomas. Also a member of the

Sophomores pitch in for Warriors

Injuries force Seel to play youngsters; inconsistency plagues GCHS

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

The Granite City Warriors volleyball record may not stand out for its numerical reflection of excellence, but the girls on the team have given plenty of effort.

"I think our talent isn't always reflected in our record," Warriors coach Beth Seel said. "It seems like we play tough teams like Belleville East very well — everybody hustles and everybody gives 100 percent. Then we play a somewhat weaker team and we will play with them, where we go back and forth or we let them have a big lead."

"So hopefully in the next couple of weeks, we will gain a little more confidence going into regionals and be able to go beat a team that maybe we have never seen before." Part of Seel's goal is to maintain the learning curve, and get some of the younger girls some experience and a head start on next year.

"We've had a couple of injuries and that has made me play some sophomores," Seel said. "That's given me the opportunity to evaluate their court sense and their ability."

Seel has no sense of urgency about the younger players' development, despite the high graduation will lay on the roster this spring.

"We're going to lose five seniors, but this is a really good group of

Granite City drops SWC match to Kahoks

By Rick Broome

Granite City High's seniors were honored Wednesday night before the Southwestern Conference volleyball game with Collinsville.

But the Kahoks were not so kind in posting a 15-9, 15-7 victory. The Kahoks jumped to a 6-0 lead to open the match, but the Warriors cut the lead to 6-3 behind the steady serving of senior Leah Gambelin and junior Jessica Worthen.

Collinsville snuck in a couple of low serves for points, but Granite City got the serve back and senior Jamie Raub nailed a kill to cut the lead to 8-7.

The Kahoks kicked their advantage to 10-8 before senior Jessica Huniak's spike got the ball back. Granite City took it as close as 11-9, but Collinsville quickly countered and served out the match.

Collinsville caught lightning in a bottle in the second game, jumping out to an 11-0 lead. The Warriors hung tough, and fought back to 11-6 behind the serving of senior Kristen Ely and an agile block by Raub and Briann Chastain. The Kahoks were too strong and finished the home team off.

"I thought we played really well," Granite City coach Beth Seel said.

GIRLS VOLLEYBALL

"The first game we came out and we were all really excited because it was our senior night and we had all the fans here."

"I thought the girls passed well, played awesome defense and had a lot of nice hits. We didn't have many errors and played pretty well. Leah had a lot of good passes and some aces."

"The second game we broke down a little bit and let them get the jump."

"The first game we played well, we started to pull things together," Gambelin said. "Then we had some bad luck and some bad things happened. Then in the second game, we kind of let down in the beginning. Then we started to come back, but we were just too far behind already."

"I think overall we could have played better, but we played better than we have before, so it was good."

"The first game was great, we played well together as a team," Raub said. "In the second game, after (Collinsville) scored a lot of points, everybody got kind of down and we couldn't get anything together."

(See WARRIORS, Page 2B)

sophomores," Seel said. "I've gotten to bring them up to varsity, and while they have sat on the bench for most of the year, with the injuries, I've been able to get them some playing time."

"They're very strong and very quick, and I think with some more practices and some more work on their technique, we'll be in very good shape for next year."

"All of our seniors are starters — our starting setter, our two middle hitters, our defensive specialist and outside hitter."

"They've all been very accommodating with the sophomores, having the new people on the court. It's a little bit weird for them, a little different, but they are trying to help them out."

while playing their own positions. "Lauren Pusczek was the first sophomore to come up and get significant time on the court. We had an injury to a middle hitter so we brought her up."

"We just really expected her to go in there and try to play the best she could. I think she played better than other girls and has played really well. She is still learning, but she is really volleyball-smart. She has good court sense."

"We'll have (Jessica) Worthen and (Jessica) Wallace back next year as well, and they are both great players."

The Warriors play tonight at home against Belleville East.

The IHSA Regionals begin Oct. 27.

Earnhardt Jr., Kinseth bring points race to Gateway

Busch Grand National's CarQuest 250 is Saturday Special to the Journal

If Dale Earnhardt Jr. is going to hit the big time in NASCAR, he won't be following directly in the tire tracks of his father, Dale Sr., who bumped his way to the top of the Winston Cup standings. The younger Earnhardt, in his first full year on the NASCAR Busch Series Grand National Division, is locked in a tight points battle with Matt Kenseth coming into the CARQUEST Auto Parts 250 this weekend at Gateway International Raceway.

Earnhardt, with seven wins this season and top-10 finishes in 20 of the 26 races to date, holds a 97-point lead over Kenseth, who has three wins and 20 top-10 finishes.

While Earnhardt's father is known as a fierce competitor, Earnhardt's relationship with Kenseth is a friendly rivalry. They hang out together at the track and away from the track.

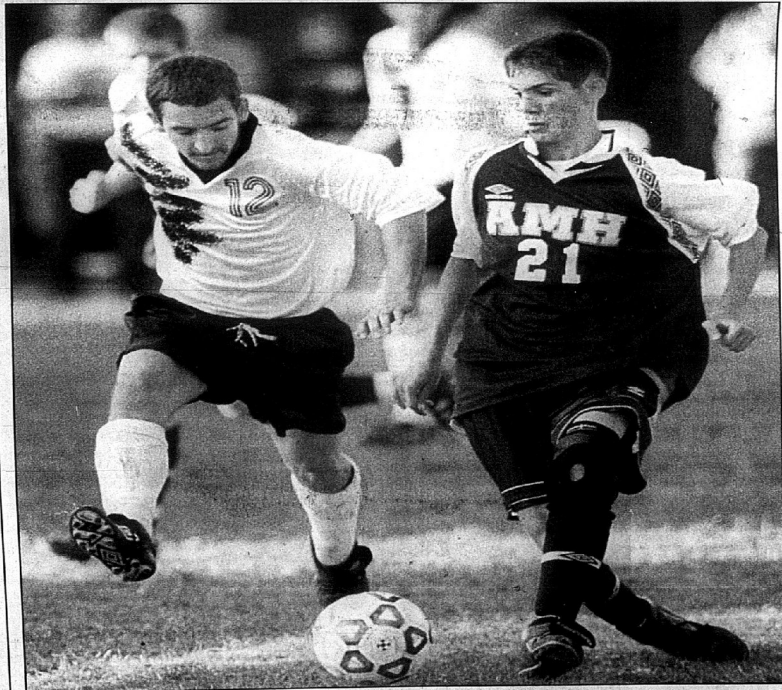

"It's a lot of fun (racing with Kenseth), really," said Earnhardt, who drives the AC-DeLco Chevrolet owned by Dale Earnhardt, Inc. "I've got to know him and hang out with him on the weekends. I've got to know him personally, and he's fun to race with. He does so much with so much less. We're pretty good pals. There's always going to be competitiveness. If we can't win it, I'm pulling for him to win."

Earnhardt can relate to that. Until this season, he ran late models on the Winston Racing Series circuit and ran a limited Busch Series schedule last year.

"Dad has let me make my own decisions and my own mistakes, because that's the way you learn," Earnhardt said.

Kenseth, whose Reiser Motorsports Chevrolet is sponsored by Lycos.com (the Internet search engine), came out of the short-track circuits of the Upper Midwest and ran a full Busch

Raub, Gamblin seek solid finish to senior season

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

Jamie Raub, Leah Gamblin and the rest of the Granite City volleyball team's seniors were honored on Tuesday night in the Granite City gym prior to the Warriors' match with Collinsville.

Raub and Gamblin are starters on the Warriors volleyball team who also play in the spring for the Granite City girls soccer team.

"Leah is our captain and she is a team leader," Warriors coach Beth Seel said. "She is always involved in everything the team does outside of practice, organizing meetings and dinners and things like that."

"Jamie Raub can kind of be the girl where we'll be having the worst day and she will say something off the wall that makes everybody laugh. She keeps the team in check. When things start getting too intense and people start getting down, she tries to perk everybody up, with her jokes or her crazy hair or whatever."

GIRLS VOLLEYBALL

Gamblin is the Warriors defensive specialist, covering the back of the court. Raub is the outside hitter, concentrating on hits and playing defense.

Both of them find that volleyball has its own particular rewards. "In volleyball, you learn to play together as a team," Gamblin said, "because if you don't respect everyone else on the court, you won't get anything done. Everything works together."

"You have to learn to pick everybody up so nobody is down," Raub said. "Everybody has to be on the same level emotionally."

"Volleyball is kind of a more mental game, I think," Gamblin said. "In soccer, you have to be mentally prepared, but a lot of it is rhythm."

"In volleyball you have to have a lot of skill, but I think it is more mental than soccer," Raub agrees.

While the two seniors notice the difference in the two sports, they also note differences between Seel and girls soccer coach Gene Baker.

"She gets a lot more friendly and personal with us than he really does," Gamblin said. "He tries to keep it on more of a coach-friend level, but she gets more involved with us. We do things, like we'll go on team outings with her and she'll take us out and we do stuff like that as a team."

"Coach Baker knows a lot about the game and has a lot of experience and he really knows what he is talking about," Raub said. "Coach Seel knows what she is talking about, too. He just has more experience as a coach."

Raub and Gamblin are conscious of their positions on the team and try to provide senior leadership.

"I just remember when I was little, looking up to the seniors," Raub said. "I don't think we are quite as looked up to, as they were but you never know."

"I want to win regionals. Really, I just hope we play together as a team and continue to get along. We don't always click together."

Jamie Raub
Granite City senior

Raub and Gamblin are looking forward to posting a strong finish to their final season of high school volleyball. Last year, the Warriors were sluggish in the regular season but managed to come on strong to capture a Class AA regional championship.

"We want to win a little bit more often," Gamblin said. "For some reason, it just hasn't all fit together."

"It's supposed to go smoothly—you have your pass, you have your set, and you have your hit. For some reason, we always seem to get stuck in one of those situations and we haven't been able to put it all together yet."

"I want to win regionals," Raub said. "Really, I just hope we play together as a team and continue to get along. We don't always click together."

"Like, someone will be playing really well and someone else will be playing really bad, and the ball will go to the person who is playing really bad. It brings everybody down."

Of their future plans, Raub said, "I am going to go into criminal psychology and play soccer."

"I'm going to be pre-med," Gamblin said. "It's weird for me to think that maybe next week might be our last game, the last time that I ever play an organized sport, because I don't know whether or not I will play in college. But I want to stay involved somehow."

er." Despite the loss, the Warriors spirits were still positive after the game. After winning a regional last year, Granite City has won just two games this fall.

"We just try to make the best of it," Gamblin said. "If you get down all the time, by the end of the season it's just done and over. So we try to still have fun and stay a team."

think that we have a really good group of athletes. I tell them every day that any team can beat any other team on a given day. They understand that they can win these games and that no one's invincible."

Before the game, parents of the seniors were presented roses and the players were handed packages and collages from the junior varsity and freshman teams.

In addition, athletes from Grigsby, Coolidge, and other middle schools in the area were invited to the high school gym to watch the varsity play against a traditional rival. The youngsters added a lot to the spirit on senior night.

"I think it's great that they were here," Seel said. "I don't think the high schoolers realize how much they are looked up to by the middle schoolers. I think these older kids set a really good example, not just by being volleyballers, but by being student-athletes."

"It means a lot to the varsity to have fans here, too; girls cheering them on. That meant a lot to them."

THE LAW AND YOU
By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Recently a man contacted this office and indicated that his teenage son was involved in an automobile accident. Subsequent to the accident, the insurance company had contacted the father and indicated that there was a possibility there was no insurance coverage on the vehicle at the time of the accident.

In this particular case, the insurance agent had contacted the father on the day before the accident and asked if he was aware that the automobile insurance would lapse at midnight. The father had not been aware of this since he had relied upon the son to make the premium payment. The agent indicated that if the premium was dropped through the office door before midnight that there would be a continuation of coverage. This was in fact done.

Shortly after 9 a.m. on the following day, one of the father's children was driving the vehicle in question and had a three-car accident. The father called the insurance agent from the accident scene and confirmed that the insurance was in force.

However, following the accident, the adjuster for the insurance company wanted to conduct an investigation to determine whether or not coverage was in force. The insurance adjuster's argument in this case was that the insurance payment was not posted until the next morning, and therefore the policy did lapse. The father argued that he followed the course of action indicated by the agent, that the payment was made before midnight, and therefore the insurance should remain in force.

The question in this case is whether the controlling fact should be when the payment was made or when the payment was posted. It is important to note that this insurance agent was a captive agent, meaning that he worked only for this company. Therefore, he had the authority to bind the company to insurance coverage. Had these representations been made by an independent broker, the result may have been different.

Eventually, the insurance adjuster contacted this office and indicated that the company had decided to accept coverage with regard to the accident in question. One controlling fact was that payment had been posted at 8:05 a.m. the day after the accident, and accident itself did not happen until 8:08 a.m. Even if this had not been the case, however, strong arguments could have been made for coverage on the vehicle.

Services were to be Monday, Nov. 2, at Wood River Township Hospital. Burial was in St. John's Cemetery.

Grundy counties.

Are they related? That's a question that even they would like to answer.

Thomas Aldredge can trace his family heritage back to his great-grandfather, William Aldredge, who traveled from England to Chicago.

On the other hand, Thomas Aldredge has a more difficult time researching his family's genealogy. His father's military records were burned during a fire at the record center in St. Louis and his father's birth records were ruined during the Great Flood of 1933.

To complicate matters, Thomas William has a son and grandson named Thomas Holbrook.

"I called one day and said this is Tom Holbrook," called for Tom Holbrook," said Belleville's Holbrook said. "Tom William, thinking it was his son, answered the phone, 'What do you need now?'"

AROUND THE AREA

Here's what happened around the Metro East in the past week:

East St. Louis Leaders vow fight for MCC

Local leaders are asking for more time to salvage an embattled East St. Louis institution.

The Illinois Community College Board will vote on the recommendation of a state-appointed committee looking at the college's ability to provide educational services.

The committee of community college and state officials may recommend dissolving the locally-elected board, reorganizing the college district or merging MCC with another community college.

Trustee Edna Allen, who heads the majority faction of the college board that ousted former President Janet Finch, said she will be in Springfield when the state makes its decision.

About 25 people, including State Rep. Wyvette Youngue, D-East St. Louis, attended a town meeting at MCC Saturday to rally support for the school.

Ground broken for youth center

At a time of crisis, one of East St. Louis' most famous daughters came home to create opportunities for youth in her hometown.

Jackie Joyner-Kersey, along with about 300 civic leaders, corporate sponsors, athletes and others broke ground Oct. 7 for the Jackie Joyner-Kersey Youth Center on 37 acres just west of Jones/Hall Park.

Joyner-Kersey recently lost her sister-in-law, Florence Griffith-Joyner, to a heart attack.

Joyner-Kersey also saw her alma mater, East St. Louis Lincoln High School, closed as a high school earlier this year. But Joyner-Kersey and others building the center are now looking to the future.

The first phase includes a game room, basketball courts, wellness and fitness centers, a dance studio, an arts-and-crafts room, a media center, locker rooms, a library, a computer resource center, a science lab and administrative offices.

Later phases include an indoor swimming pool and track, a performing arts facility and other additions.

Cahokia Teens held in shooting

Two teenagers were arrested and charged this week in the shooting of a 14-year-old at a Cahokia elementary school.

A 14-year-old Wirth Middle School student pleaded innocent Wednesday to a charge of aggravated battery with a firearm, and a 14-year-old Cahokia High School student pleaded guilty to unlawful use of a weapon and unlawful possession of a firearm.

The pair were allegedly involved in shooting Matthew Jackowitz, 14, of Belleville, in the chest when he intervened in an altercation involving Mark Sanders, 11, at 6:20 p.m. Sept. 30.

Jackowitz spent a week in a hospital and was released Wednesday.

St. Clair County Associate Judge James Radcliffe sentenced the 14-year-old student to 30 days in the juvenile detention center and gave him one year probation.

The Wirth Middle School student's trial is Oct. 21. He is in custody at the detention center.

Student suspended for toy gun

A Laumier School second-grade student has been suspended after bringing a toy gun to school.

The 7-year-old student brought a toy gun that fires plastic pellets to the school on Sept. 28.

Principal Judy Smith said the student showed the gun to students on the bus. One of the students alerted a monitor, who took the student to the principal's office.

Smith also said parents would be made aware of the district's zero-tolerance policy on weapons, which she said has been a long-standing policy.

Belleville Diocese looks for volunteers

The Belleville Diocese is asking for volunteers to give two hours a week that could make a difference in the lives of people on welfare.

The diocese's Poverty Service is working with Illinois Department of Human Resources' welfare-to-work agencies to ease the transition from welfare to work.

Illinois welfare clients have 3.5 years to find a job before cash assistance is cut off. The state adopted the federal guidelines last July.

The diocese is looking for volunteers to work two hours a week for two months in transportation, tutoring, finding appropriate work clothing, mentoring and providing child care. To volunteer, call 235-9601.

O'Fallon City heads for home rule

A meeting on home rule was conducted Tuesday at O'Fallon City Hall by campaign attorney Kurt Froehlich.

Voters will be given the chance to grant the city home rule in a referendum Nov. 6. If approved, the city will have more power to make decisions locally without relying on the state.

O'Fallon Mayor Gary Graham said home rule would allow the city to implement a quarter-cent sales tax, which is expected to generate $800,000 a year.

Frank Mies, director of administration, said the chief reason O'Fallon is proposing home rule is to improve roads and build a new police station.

Waterloo Local attorney jailed in shooting

One of Monroe County's most venerated legal figures was jailed Oct. 6 for allegedly firing a handgun and wounding a man.

Edgar O. Zimmer, 46, was arrested by Waterloo Police just before 6 a.m. Tuesday after he allegedly shot a man in the leg following a disagreement.

According to a police report, Dave Kocurek, 35, was attempting to retrieve some tools from Zimmer's garage at about 5 p.m. when Zimmer confronted him with a gun.

Zimmer is being charged with reckless discharge of a firearm, a second-degree felony. State's Attorney Dennis Doyle said. Judge Dennis Jacobsen set bond at $10,000 and ordered Zimmer to voluntarily admit himself to St. Anthony's Hospital for a psychological evaluation as a condition of the bond, Doyle said.

Zimmer is Monroe County's oldest practicing attorney. He served as state's attorney from 1936 through 1960.

Politicians share name, success

By Cheryl A. Moody
Staff writer

Will the real Tom Holbrook please stand up?

Meet Rep. Tom Holbrook (D-Belleville) and Tom Holbrook (R-Kendall County).

With both men being politicians in Illinois, one way to tell them apart (besides looks) is by their middle names.

Belleville's Holbrook is Thomas Aldredge and Kendall County's is Thomas William.

Thomas William is the Kendall County treasurer and collector. He is seeking re-election as treasurer in this fall's general election.

Thomas Aldredge was elected four years ago to serve as the state representative in the 113th District. He is also seeking re-election this fall. Neither man faces opposition on Nov. 3.

The two met recently for the second time at the Ramada Inn in Fairview Heights. The first time the two met was two years ago at the Illinois County Treasurers' Association.

"We shook hands and I said, 'Hi,'" Thomas Aldredge said. "I gave him Thomas Holbrook magnets and another ink pen."

Four years ago, Thomas Aldredge gave Tom Cross (R-District 84) an ink pen to give to Thomas William. Cross was the person to first make the Holbrook connection.

Both men have served time on county boards — some of that time was even during the same years.

Thomas Aldredge spent 14 years as a St. Clair County Board member (1980-94).

Thomas William served on the Kendall County Board from 1982-87. He then became director of the community services department for Kendall and Grundy counties.

Are they related? That's a question that even they would like to answer.

Thomas William can trace his family heritage back to his great-grandfather, William Aldredge, who traveled from England to Chicago.

On the other hand, Thomas Aldredge has a more difficult time researching his family's genealogy. His father's military records were burned during a fire at the record center in St. Louis and his father's birth records were ruined during the Great Flood of 1933.

To complicate matters, Thomas William has a son and grandson named Thomas Holbrook.

"I called one day and said this is Tom Holbrook," called for Tom Holbrook," said Belleville's Holbrook said. "Tom William, thinking it was his son, answered the phone, 'What do you need now?'"

Walk on air

TIM STEPHENSON / Press-Record

Clockwise from top, a crowd gathers in front of the Glik Sports store in Granite City to watch AIRWALK members, such as Dave "Psycho" Halford of Oklahoma, defy gravity. The AIRWALK Stunt Team carries its own equipment, such as this ramp, around the county. While his team member is in the air, John Bethers of Utah talks to the crowd about being drug-free and bike-riding safety.

Next, Bethers flies free at the height of a stunt, while Halford jumps his bike over several nervous — but willing — volunteers.

AIRWALK Stunt Team thrills all with aerial dare-doing

They fly through the air with the greatest of ease ...

Tons of kids and adults turned out on a sunny Friday afternoon last week to watch visitors from out west walk on air. The AIRWALK BMX Stunt Team returned to Granite City for a gravity-defying performance at the Glik's stores in Bellemore Village.

Dave "Psycho" Halford, of Tucson, Okla., and John Bethers of Provo, Utah, brought their bikes and their moxie to strut their stuff for the amazed crowd.

Team kicked off another nationwide tour, thrilling crowds with their amazing aerial ramp maneuvers, flatland BMX stunts and driving kids to chant "Airwalk, Airwalk, Airwalk."

The AIRWALK Stunt Team is a group of young athletes — BMX riders and in-line skaters — who captivate audiences of all ages with their exciting, crowd-pleasing show.

After the performance, the team members signed autographs and tossed gifts to the crowd.

The team has traveled around the world performing choreographed routines, sensational stunts and conveying inspirational messages to young people, including bicycle and sports safety and encouraging healthy alternatives to drugs.

The world-class BMX and in-line competitors boast impressive credentials, with long lists of notable appearances on television including "Pacific Blue," "Baywatch," ESPN and MTV.

Their individual Hollywood credits include appearances in Van Halen and Candiebox music videos, BMX and in-line skate videos, as well as Coca-Cola, AT&T, Jeep, Gatorade and Motiv commercials. Several team members showcased their skills at the ESPN X-Games and ESPN Destination Extreme series.

When the team isn't performing at AIRWALK retailers, it is booked solid during the school year, traveling to more than 300 elementary and junior high schools throughout the nation.

Steelworker, 55, dies after plant accident

GRANITE CITY — A steelworker died Saturday after suffering third-degree burns in an accident Friday at Granite City Steel.

Joseph Morelock, 55, of Granite City died at 5:10 a.m. Sunday, becoming the second man in 1998 to die from an accident at the plant.

A formal investigation was to be conducted Monday afternoon, said company representative Bob Maxwell. He said plant officials do not know exactly what happened.

All findings are considered preliminary until the Occupational Safety and Health Administration investigates the incident.

What they do know, Maxwell said, is that Morelock, employed as a keeper on the B blast furnace, was involved with a casting operation Friday evening. As he and co-workers were preparing to cast, Morelock was standing in front of an open hole in the furnace, and was apparently hit with a blast of hot air or burning gases.

Morelock was the second man to die from an accident at the Granite City Division in the past seven months. Samuel J. Burch, 46, died in April after he was caught between the belt and the structure of a shut-down conveyor on which he was working. His was the first death in almost a decade at the plant.

In September, OSHA fined Granite City Steel $70,000, claiming safety violations resulted in Burch's death. Maxwell said Monday that plant officials are contesting OSHA's citations.

Fitzgerald visits area, says GOP is united

GRANITE CITY — Peter Fitzgerald, Republican candidate for U.S. Senate, stopped at the Granite City elementary school Thursday afternoon on his way to a GOP rally in Edwardsville.

After listening to a civics lesson from the candidate, students asked questions on everything from how different state governments are from the federal to how the impeachment process works.

Fitzgerald spared St. Elizabeth students any attacks on his Democratic opponent, Sen. Carol Mosley-Braun, but in Edwardsville an hour later, he let loose with a full-scale barrage.

He listed many of the issues the two candidates disagree on, including tax breaks and partial-birth abortions, and said it was time to end six years of scandal and controversy. The Edwardsville rally also included remarks from Steve Reeb and Bill Price, candidates for the state legislature and U.S. Congress, respectively, and cries of "Hey, hey, ho, ho, Mosley-Braun's got to go!" from the crowd of at least 60.

City's 66 visions include annexing near bridge

GRANITE CITY — The lure of Old Route 66 falls into Granite City's next planned expansion.

On Oct. 6, the City Council approved authorizing Economic Development Director Dan Brown to initiate bringing at least 23 acres of valuable land into the city.

In wanting to annex the land, near Interstate 70 and Illinois 3, city officials are prepared to extend an existing tax increment financing district and abate $25,000 in taxes to the property owner.

Glenn Riechmann — owner of Riechmann Transport Inc., 3328 W. Chain of Rocks Road, and of much of the land in question — has entered a pre-annexation agreement with the city. After learning of the annexation plans, Brown said, other property owners in the area asked to be annexed into the city under the same terms as Riechmann's.

With the Old Chain of Rocks Bridge becoming a biking trail and walking trail, he said, city officials can see in the future a fine hotel and possibly a Route 66 museum sitting on the valuable commercial property.

Walgreens site test proves inconclusive

GRANITE CITY — The decade-long effort to bring a second Walgreens to Granite City hit a temporary setback when soil tests came back last week as inconclusive.

Environmental tests for petrol products were necessary because the property, at Madison Avenue and 20th Street, once held a Clark gas station.

On Friday, city engineers were at the site to initiate a second independent test on the site's ground water.

If any product shows up in the test, financial lenders for Hurwitz Development Co. of Springfield may hesitate at the expensive prospect of cleaning the property, said Dan Brown, the city's economic development director. Although the site had been cleaned once before, tests revealed gasoline in groundwater in nearby properties.

The developer has plans to build a 14,000-square-foot store, first proposed in 1987.

Dog Month under way for shelter

The Metro East Humane Society is observing Adopt a Shelter Dog Month during October and promoting the shelter as an excellent source for a family pet.

Adopt a Shelter Dog Month is a national campaign lead by the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals with the goal of educating Americans about the benefits of adopting a dog from the millions available at more than 6,000 shelters across the nation.

Before choosing to adopt a pet, the society said potential adopters should ask themselves the following questions:

✓ Am I ready to make a commitment to an animal for its lifetime?

✓ Is the animal the right breed for my family and household?

✓ Who will be the primary caretaker for the animal?

✓ Can I afford the animal?

✓ Am I ready to commit to obedience training for this animal?

The National Council on Pet Population Study and Policy recently conducted a study that showed that of the top 10 reasons why people turned their animals into shelters, the top seven reasons were the same for both dogs and cats.

It's time to peek at peaking leaves

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

The first autumn leaves have fallen from the trees.

For the most obsessive of yard maintainers, this has already produced a rake or a mower to eliminate piles of the offending foliage.

But for the less ambitious of landscapers, those who enjoy the temperature changes, aren't upset by the tree debris and like a nice country drive, the wayward leaves can create quite an awesome sight.

It's a final chance to enjoy fall before it gives way to winter. According to the National Weather Service, the first frost hits around Oct. 31.

For our area, peak foliage viewing occurs just prior to that, during the last two weeks of October. But the Greater Alton/Twin Rivers Convention and Visitors Bureau has issued

How to get there:

To get to the Great River Road, take Interstate 270 or 255 north to Illinois 3.

Take Illinois 3 north to Illinois 143. Go west and follow the signs into Alton.

Continue on Illinois 100 to the intersection with Illinois 67. From there, you can take one of two routes: Elsah and Grafton on the first, or Jerseyville on the second.

a bulletin that peak viewing along the Great River Road could happen as early as this weekend.

"It's starting to happen already," said Douglas Arnold of the Bureau. "We're anticipating that the next two weekends will be it."

The Great River Road, the country's newest National Scenic Byway, is in "Piasa Country," starting in Alton in northern Madison County and continuing into Jersey and Calhoun counties.

Arnold said that Oct. 17-18 and 24-25 should provide the best views of the leaves as they change to brilliant reds and golds.

Depending on the weather, the colors may even hold out through Halloween, he said.

In addition to the leaves, tourists can visit a number of stops along the road.

They include:

- Alton Belle Casino — Docked in downtown Alton.

- Piasa Bird — This mythical Native American creature was recently restored to a perch among the river bluffs.

- Elsah — A trip back in time to an entire village that appears on the National Historic Register.

- Pere Marquette Lodge — Stay for a while or just check out its visitors center and miles of nature trails.

- Grafton — Shops, restaurants, Eckert's Orchard and an outdoor amphitheater are just a few of the sites to visit. This weekend, they'll be holding the Gathering of the Waters Rendezvous.

You can get more information, including a 48-page visitors guide, from the Visitors Bureau by calling toll-free at (800) ALTON-IL (258-6645). Or you can visit its web site at www.altoncvb.org.

Harvest Homefest to provide fun for everyone

By Steve Whitworth
Staff writer

The eighth annual Harvest Homefest will draw thousands of people to Edwardsville and Glen Carbon this weekend to enjoy a variety of events.

"We're looking forward to a very busy two days," said Bill

Hurteau, vice president of the Edwardsville/Glen Carbon Chamber of Commerce. "It looks as if the weather is going to hold for us."

The events begin at 8 a.m. Saturday with the Land of Goshen Community Market in downtown Edwardsville, a farmer's market for horticultural, baked and homegrown foods, and fine art products.

At 11:30 a.m. Saturday, there will be a dedication ceremony for the Edwardsville National Bank Clock Tower on North Main Street, in the parking lot immediately south of Edwardsville Frozen Foods.

From 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday, a Pumpkin Patch event will be held at the Montclair Shopping Center on Troy Road. There will be a pumpkin painting contest for children and horse-drawn antique hay wagon rides through the historic Leclaire neighborhood.

Awards for the contest will be given in four age groups. The judging, awards and attendance prizes, which will be donated by Montclair merchants, will begin at 4 p.m. The event is free.

The Miner Octoberfest will run from 2 to 9 p.m. Saturday at Miner Park in downtown Glen Carbon. Admission is free to the park, where there will be apple butter-making, food, beverages, musical entertainment and children's activities, including pony rides and clowns.

The entertainment will include: Access to Sound DJ from 2 to 4 p.m.; Euphony from 5 to 8:30 p.m.; and George Portz and his Friends of Bluegrass Band from 6:30 to 9 p.m. Admission will be free.

Sunday's events all will be held at Leclaire Park in Edwardsville, beginning with a Volksmarch from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. The 10K walk will take participants from Leclaire Park to the Watershed Nature Center, then past some of the historic homes on St. Louis Street.

The walk is sanctioned by the American Volkssport Association. Registration on the day of the event is $2 for those walking for Volkssport credit; all others will walk for free. Awards will be available.

The Leclaire Parkfest runs from noon to 5 p.m. Sunday. A variety of harvest foods will be available, including caramel apples, kettle corn, bratwurst and pizza. There will be a beer garden and live entertainment, including the Old St. Louis Levee Band from noon to 2:30 p.m., and Coyote Moon from 2:30 to 5 p.m.

The Parkfest will feature horse-drawn carriage rides through historic Leclaire, a farmer's market, antique car display, antique farm implements display and parade, crafts and demonstrations. Admission is free.

The Family Bike Rumble begins at 10:30 a.m. Sunday and runs through 4 p.m. It will begin at The Pedal Shop on Troy Road at Montclair Shopping Center.

At 2:30 p.m. Sunday, there will be boat races at Leclaire Park featuring competitions between officials from Edwardsville and Glen Carbon. Edwardsville Mayor Gary Niebur will race Glen Carbon Trustee Ben Maliszewski, and Edwardsville City Clerk Nina Baird will race Glen Carbon Village Clerk Rita Ranek. The competition begins at 2:30 p.m.

Filmmakers continue to court Dixie

What is there about the backwaters of Dixie that pumps the creative juices of writers and filmmakers?

From "Tobacco Road" to "Forrest Gump," from "Baby Doll" to "Ulee's Gold," scarcely a Southern county has been overlooked.

"Shadrach" continues this long tradition. Based on a short story by William Styron, it has been lovingly translated to the screen by his daughter, Susanna Styron, who served as director and co-writer with Bridget Terry. Hardly more than a vignette, the film is flawlessly acted by a pair of professionals, Harvey Keitel and Andie MacDowell, and two newcomers, an old man and a young boy.

Paul Whitehurst (Scott Terra), 10, is the only child of well-mannered, middle-class parents in a Virginia hamlet during the Depression. A dutiful, churchgoing son, Paul is nevertheless attracted to the Dabneys, a large, impoverished and ill-mannered family whose ancestors owned a plantation.

Vernon Dabney (Keitel)

Andie MacDowell, John Franklin Sawyer and Harvey Keitel in a scene from "Shadrach."

presides over the family. A blustery, bigoted, profane man, his skills are limited to producing moonshine in a wooded hideaway. His wife Trixie (MacDowell) directs the children's activities, beer bottle in hand.

The Whitehurst parents must leave for Baltimore because of a death in the family. Against their better judgment, they accede to their son's pleas to be allowed to stay with the Dabneys. Paul immediately abandons his well-scrubbed life as he joins his earthy neighbors.

Along comes Shadrach. He is a former slave nearing the end of his 99 years. He has walked all the way from Alabama to Virginia so he can be buried among his family on the old Dabney plantation.

At first Vernon rejects the idea of caring for the old man. But he is overruled by his wife and children. As Shadrach's death seems near, Vernon begins to prepare for the burial. But the sheriff admonishes him that burial on private ground is forbidden in Virginia. Vernon faces the choice of paying for a professional burial or flaunting the law, as he does with his still.

A graduate of the American Film Institute, Susanna Styron evidences tendencies of former film students: shooting through foliage, use of slow motion, etc. But she shows real talent in dealing with characters; all of the actors in "Shadrach" seem real and rooted in the Depression-stricken 1930s.

Keitel is expert in domineering roles, and he shines as the rough but fair-minded paterfamilias.

Martin Sheen provides a useful narration as the grownup Paul.

The Columbia Pictures release was produced by Bridget Terry, with two other producers and six executive producers also listed.

International Folkfest set for Queeny Park

By Mary Shapiro
Staff writer

For three days, Queeny Park will become the crossroads of the world, as music, dance, food, stories, art and crafts from around the globe entertain visitors at the 1998 International Folkfest.

The event will take place Friday through Monday at the Greensfelder Recreation Complex at the park, 550 Weidman Road in West County. It is sponsored by the International Institute of St. Louis, a non-profit organization that assists immigrants and refugees who move to the area. The group also works to foster greater understanding of various cultures.

The Folkfest will run 6 to 9 p.m. Friday; 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. (followed by the Ethnic Treasures of St. Louis fashion show from 7:30 to 9 p.m.) Saturday; and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

More than 70 ethnic and international organizations will take part in Folkfest, said Anna Crosslin, director of the event and president and chief executive officer of the International Institute.

The Folkfest has grown over the years to become the largest multicultural event in the region, said Suzanne Holroyd, publicity chairwoman. This year's Folkfest will take place over three days instead of two days, as in the past, she said.

Many activities will be geared especially to children and their families, Holroyd said.

Youngsters will be able to take part in hands-on arts and crafts reflecting a variety of cultures; create colorful masks, hats and puppets; receive lessons in ethnic cooking; have their names or special messages written in one of 15 alphabets; listen to storytellers; see cooking demonstrations; and more.

Kids won't be the only ones having fun. Performers from countries throughout Europe, Africa, Asia and South America will entertain nonstop on a pair of stages throughout the festival.

In addition, a Cabaret Room stage will offer individual and small-group performances of music, dance and storytelling in an intimate setting.

The Ethnic Treasures of St. Louis Fashion Show will feature exotic clothing, some of which is seldom displayed outside native countries.

People also will be able to sample crab rangoon, Hungarian strudel, Nigerian jollof (rice) and lots of other foods at 21 booths operated by ethnic groups.

The Cultural Windows and Cultural Kaleidoscope areas will offer craft demonstrations, such as a potter from the Amazon region of Peru; Eritrean basket makers; American Indian bead workers; and doll makers from Japan.

People also will be able to shop at an International Bazaar, which will feature 19 booths offering handmade crafts, artwork and collectibles.

Other booths will provide information on globally-oriented organizations in the St. Louis area.

Daily admission to the Folkfest is $4 for adults, $3 for senior citizens, $2 for children ages 5 through 15, and free for children 4 and younger.

The Ethnic Treasures of St. Louis fashion show Oct. 17 will be open to all paid visitors that day, but stage-side seating is available for an additional $5.

Parking is free.

For more information, call Suzanne Holroyd at 991-4641 or Anna Crosslin at 773-9090.

Information is also available on the International Institute's website at www.intlinst.org.

In addition to the International Institute, underwriting for the festival is being provided by the Missouri Arts Council; Regional Arts Commission; Southwestern Bell; Western Union Financial Services; Boeing Co.; Missouri Lottery; Emerson Electric Co.; Webster University; Wilbert Home Products; May Co.; Marriott West and Marriott Pavilion hotels; and Dave Mungenast Automotive Family.

HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 15

The moon travels with Neptune in Capricorn today, increasing our skills of imagination and promoting creativity toward attaining our goals. The sun, Venus and Mercury all traveling together in Scorpio could focus your energies toward secret, romantic encounters. You may be drawn to someone who prefers to remain a mystery.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You've got to start trusting your ideas. Finish business with a flourish by tying up the loose ends instead of letting them slowly unravel. An effort to correct past errors assures future satisfaction.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). The moon moving into Aquarius warms up your platonic relationships. You may discover that friendship is more valuable to your life than you thought. Overcome adversity by remaining flexible.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). The results of your work yield praise. In romantic matters, if you don't have unreasonable expectations, you won't be disappointed. Keep your mind fresh by changing your focus tonight, perhaps by reading a new book.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Do everything in your power to make adjustments happen smoothly. Set plans in motion with practical action. It's time to start a savings plan. Make appointments with professionals.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Plan sensual excitement. Make sure you know where you stand with that generous per son before you accept a gift. Strive to make things all right for everyone, but don't ignore yourself. Generous intentions can result in duplicity.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Oct. 27). There are a million ways to get off track this year, but you are blessed with vision. You must work up the persistence to pursue a dream until it is a stark reality. March is a virtual windfall — save! Other lucrative months are February and May. Family tranquillity gives you a chance to ask for the support you need in June. Lucky signs for you to partner with are Cancer and Pisces.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You see alternatives clearly and frequently shift throughout the day. Someone has personal reasons for withdrawing that have nothing to do with you. Give yourself a timetable for decisions. Libra playfully attracts you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Life style changes are due to your strength of character and willingness to grow. If you drop the ball for an instant, the other person's attention wavers, and he or she is out the door. Changes need to be made, but it's not quite time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). The mind tends to dominate the heart. You greatly benefit from a body of knowledge that runs counter to the accepted norm. Seek variety in your social connections — enjoy the process of communicating for its own sake.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). If you delegate, you are free to flirt and create an intriguing romantic drama. You enjoy entertaining now, even if it is on the brink of dangerous! All detail work should be put off until you are completely finished playing.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). You breeze through the morning's tasks, allowing for a few hours of daydreaming. Your sense of wonder and curiosity are fully "alive," which attracts many suitors. The best signs for love today are Libra and Scorpio.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Use your charm on the family; pressure to conform can be dissolved with good humor. Many Aquarians are feeling stifled but will soon have a new, freer relationship. Life is in the interpretation.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You have access to more funds than you think. If you want an investor, just ask around. Put some sizzle in a relationship by being playful. Your love life flourishes when you re-familiarize yourself with the rules of the game.

I am not obligated to listen to the U2 album "October," every October, yet that's what I have done for the last 15 years or so.

The album title is an obvious influence on me, but, there is more to it than that. The tone of "October" fits a month when we noticeably lose sunlight and the weather becomes more severe. It sets an appropriate mood for this point in the year.

Of course, you can listen to any music you want any time you desire. However, some songs fit one season better than another. For instance, "I Get Around" by the Beach Boys should be played loudly and often as you drive down the highway during the summer. Hearing it in a Muzak version in a dentist's office in December actually depresses me.

I believe that summer is the top music-inspiring season. Off the top of our heads, my friends and I came up with at least a dozen songs either mentioning the hot months or eliciting images of swimsuits and picnics. Sly and the Family Stone gave us "Hot Fun in the Summertime." Bananarama and now Ace of Base have turned out "Cruel Summer." Don Henley did "The Boys of Summer." "Summertime," from the folk opera "Porgy and Bess" comes to mind for many people as their song of the season. John Fogerty's "Centerfield" also fits into this category because it glorifies baseball, the sport of summer.

To represent the cold months, I think of "Winter Wonderland" and "Let It Snow." Of the Christmas songs, the one that stands out for me is "Christmas (Baby Please Come Home)" by Darlene Love. I think of "New Year's Day" by U2 for, let me see... oh yes, New Year's Day.

We recalled only a few songs for spring. "April Showers" and "Easter Parade" are a couple of old standards. "Pride (In the Name of Love)" by U2 at least mentions April 4, though, the song itself is about Martin Luther King.

For this week's trivia, the topic is songs that are linked to seasons, dates or times.

1. In Rod Stewart's "Maggie May," he says it is what month?
2. "California Dreamin'" by the Mamas and the Papas is set in what season?
3. A song by the Boomtown Rats is about not liking what day of the week?
4. Who did the song "Forever Autumn"?

5. From the movie "The Producers," name the song about a German political leader that mentions a season of the year.

6. Which group had a No. 2 hit with "Manic Monday" in 1986?

7. What song by the Cure about a day of the week hit No. 18 on the Billboard chart in 1992?

8. What happened on Sept. 3 in the song "Papa Was a Rollin' Stone" by the Temptations?

9. John Travolta and Olivia Newton-John teamed for what popular song from 1978 that specifies a season?

10. Which duo charted with "Summer Breeze" in 1972?

ANSWERS: 1. September. Stewart was 26 when he released this song, in which he talks about stealing his daddy's cue and making a living playing pool. 2. Winter. 3. Mondays, from the song, "I Don't Like Mondays." 4. Justin Hayward, lead singer of the Moody Blues. 5. "Springtime For Hitler." This is from one of the funniest scenes I have ever viewed in any movie. 6. The Bangles. This was supposed to be one of the groups from the 1980s that was going to dominate music for decades. The group disbanded in 1989. 7. "Friday I'm in Love." 8. The singer's father died that day. 9. "Summer Nights," from the movie "Grease." 10. Seals and Crofts.

Kevin Carbery can be heard as a regular on "The Trivia Coast-To-Coast Show" from 8-11 p.m. Sundays on KMOX Radio (1120 AM).

Writers Club sets awareness forum

"Break Word With The World," an annual "media awareness" forum of the Eugene Redmond Writers Club, will be held at 6:30 p.m. today, Oct. 15, in the second floor City Council Chambers of the Municipal Building, 301 River Park Dr., East St. Louis.

Now in its eighth year, the program features a potpourri of poetry, commentary and anecdotes that is by turn humorous, satirical, provocative, titillating, subtle, and blunt.

East St. Louis is one of 13 U.S. cities participating in the media awareness project, also known as a "Town Hall Meeting/Reading."

The forum aims to draw attention to the abuses of the media, especially "prime time" news, which often distorts or marginalizes citizens because of their color, race, sex, religion, or political persuasion.

This year's "Break Word With The World" is a joint project of the EBR Writers Club and the Illinois Sociological Association, which will be meeting Oct. 14-17 at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville's ESL Center.

Among presenters are Darlene Roy, writers club president; Lindenwood College poet and teacher Michael Castro; St. Louis poet and art historian Jan Castro; Last Poets' founder David Nelson; St. Louis poet and Atty. Sheryl Johnson; Granite City storyteller and editor Madeleine Morningfire Myers, and ESL story teller and former Peace Corps Deputy Director Reginald Petty. Sponsors of "Break Word With The World" include the EBR Writers Club, SIUE English Department/Drumvoices Revue, Ishmael Reed and PEN Oakland (international association of Poets, Essayists and Novelists), and the Illinois Sociological Association.

As it has done in previous years, the EBR Writers Club, in collaboration with the SIUE English Department, will publish works read by presenters at "Break Word ... VIII."

Other participants include ESL poet laureate Eugene Redmond, St. Louis satirist and Atty. Chris Hayden; St. Louis poet and art historian Jan Castro; Last Poets' founder David Nelson; St. Louis poet and Atty. Sheryl Johnson; Granite City storyteller and editor Madeleine Morningfire Myers, and ESL story teller and former Peace Corps Deputy Director Reginald Petty. Sponsors of "Break Word With The World" include the EBR Writers Club, SIUE English Department/Drumvoices Revue, Ishmael Reed and PEN Oakland (international association of Poets, Essayists and Novelists), and the Illinois Sociological Association.

For more information, contact SIUE English Department at 650-2060 or 650-3991.

Halloween

THE GRANITE CITY PARK DISTRICT will sponsor a free Halloween party from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Oct. 30 at Brown Recreation Center, Franklin and Amos avenues.

The party is for children in kindergarten through third grade. All children must be in costume. Prizes will be awarded for best costumes in each grade group. A parade of costumed children will be held, and there will be performances by local magician Bill Apperson and storyteller Bill Monical. All children will receive a treat.

All attendees must register in person or by telephone at the Wilson Park office, at 877-3059.

ST. STANISLAUS LODGE is sponsoring a Halloween Dance benefit for PRCU Dance Troupe Oct. 17 at the Polish Hall, 826 Greenwood St. in Madison. Music will be provided by Greg Novak's Remede Band with dancing from 8 p.m. to midnight. Costume contest, prizes and food are offered. A donation of $4 is suggested.
